Hello!
Thank you loads for coming to my show.

6.40pm at the Cafe Royal,
4th - 28th August 2006
(Not 15th, 22nd)

Hello! Hello!

Hi! Thanks for coming to my first ever hour long show. I hope you like it and think it's ok.

I'm Josie and I am 24 years old and I am a stand up comedian.

My favourite (19th) nature poet is John Clare. At one point John Clare went mental and thought he was a Prize fighter. FACT.

My favourite colour is aqua-marine (the colour of 1950's outdoor swimming pools) and my favourite drink is either Ovaltine or pomegranate.

I play boggle upwards of 15 times a day and my favourite word I've ever got was "stetson".*

Now we totally know each other!

②

*That's not the highest scoring word, just my favourite.

I made this magazine because I liked the idea of having a show programme with extra stuff in it. I hope you like it.

This was made..

If you don't, why not use it to make a plane and then throw it at me during one of my "skits".

Songs on the mix played when you came in (hopefully if all goes according to plan)...

★ My Rollercoaster - by Kimya Dawson

↳ I love this song! Even when they all start singing ridiculous covers. It's all about loving being lo-fi and touring around.

★ Give him a great big kiss - The Shangri-Las.

FACT one of the Shangri-Las actually died in a motorcycle accident. I love how awkward the call and response part of these songs are.

★ Had it All - Jack and Jeffrey Lewis.

I love Jeffrey Lewis so much. Check out www.thejeffreylewisite.com

★ The ghost of corporate future - Regina Spektor.
Any song that advocates home haircutting is ok by me. "People are just people", it's such a nice message.

★ Loose Lips - Kimya Dawson.

She should be called Kimya D'awesome.

Do you get it? It's a pun.

★ Kissing the Lipless - The Shins.

The start of this song is handclaps & then someone going "woooo!". You don't get better (5) than that.

* Don't let the record label take you out to lunch - Jeffrey Lewis

This is a really inspiring song. "It takes big heart to make great, great art". Yeah! If you like this then check out "The Williamsburg Will Oldham Honor" on his newish album "City & Eastern Songs".

* Like Giants - Kinya Dawson.

If you don't like her, you're a fool to yourself.

* Chicago - by Sufjan Stevens.

I love this song. It's statistically quite unlikely that it'll get played before the show though, as there's only about 15 mins tops to wait. Sorry. What a tease if you haven't heard it, you'll be sitting there the whole hour thinking "I wonder what this 'Chicago's like I've been hearing so much about". Well it's good. It's nothing like the musical either.

Not like the musical?
Oh. Why does life
keep letting me down.

D.I.Y: The Rise of Lofi Culture

by Amy Spencer.

"adopt the DIY principle that you should create your own cultural experience... that you can create your own space".

For your information, I googled "Paul Montgomery" and found a few possible people. A man who made high-camp murals in San Francisco, for example, but one guy came across as the coolest, dorkiest, black-t-shirt-with-a-woy-on-it wearingiest ever.

He has a website called everything-bewilders.us. on it he says his nickname is "paradox" his favourite colour is purple (he is a grown man. How cool!) and his favourite music is Techno, New Age, 80's Rock. In his achievements he states he founded the university of Tennessee and Chattanooga chess team. He is obviously a first class dude, which makes it even more sad that he was killed by a snowglobe-sixated maniac.

I don't really know what these mean, but I love the fact that he's put "y's" instead of "I's" into the names to make them more mythical. Also calling one of them "Shadowcat" - I wonder what that character's like? hmmm...

these ways. That's the problem.

This bit is from when I took the show on tour. I do really recommend them still though....
